Mobility Exercise

This drill had a lot of us getting up earlier than usual Saturday morning to participate in another joint mobility exercise along with the 15th Air Base Wing. This weekend was only a rehearsal for the upcoming ORE (the dress rehearsal) in October, our last chance to shine before our upcoming ORI scheduled for December!

This UTA was a chance for all of us (newbees and old-timers, alike—including our active duty counterparts) to practice mobility (processing procedures) without time restraints, to get the bugs out, clean off the rust, adjust our thinking caps and to see just where we stand as far as readiness is concerned.

It was an opportunity for us to get our personal affairs in order, get our shots and medical records squared away and to see just where we need tuning up. Whether it's cargo handlers, personnel processors, or weathermen, it takes everyone doing their individual part within the "mechanism" throughout the entire exercise to make it a success, according to Lt. Col. Melvin Asai, group mobility officer. He stated, "It takes 'teamwork' from both the troops being mobilized and from the support troops at home".

154th COMPG Receives Two Safety Awards

The HIANG was notified recently, that the 154th Composite Group was the recipient of the Air Force Explosive Safety Plaque for 1991 and the National Guard Bureau Major General John J. Pesch Flight Safety Trophy.

Maj. Gen. Richardson and Brig. Gen. Mizumoto sent their congratuations:

"I know it takes strong leadership, hard work and dedication to be the 'best of the best'. Please convey my special 'mahalo' for the 154 COMPG's visible and exceptional efforts. We are very proud to have them on our team." Maj. Gen. Richardson.

"Your efforts and the effort of each member of the 154 COMPG are sincerely appreciated by all members of the Hawaii Air National Guard. We are all very proud of you. Keep up the good work!" Brig. Gen. Mizumoto.

Family Day

Family Day is scheduled for next drill on Sunday September 20th from one to four o'clock. Release time to pick up dependents will be 11:00 o'clock. Special guests will include Senator Dan Inouye, Maj. Gen. Richardson and newly pinned Brig. Gen. Mizumoto.

Among the many fun activities will be static displays, facility tours and the "Dunk Tank". Of course, there will be plenty to eat and activities for the kids. A great time will be had by all.

Your unit needs your help and donations. Each unit will be collecting donations to buy time for unit-sponsored people to be in the "Family Day Dunk Tank". The money collected from the time sale will go to support 154 COMPG Christmas/Family Days and charitable activities, like Homeless Kids Christmas. Money from "throw" sales will go to the sponsoring unit for unit activities. Donations must be in by this drill. See your unit representative or First Sergeant.

Sometime ago, I heard an interesting story of a nice man who was misjudged. As memory permits, let me recount the story to you...

Many years ago, there was a nice, respectable family man who lived in New York City. Everyday he would travel to work and back home on the subway. Just before Thanksgiving, he and his friends at work decided to have a contest to see who could make the best looking turkey. Each person would bring his turkey to work on the day before Thanksgiving. After the contest, there would be a turkey exchange. Everyone would take another person's turkey home and later report on how good the turkey tasted.

At the end of the contest day, some of his friends decided to play a joke on him. While he wasn't looking, they switched the real turkey he had in his bag with a fake turkey. The turkey looked real on the outside. On the inside, however, it was filled with all kinds of useless fillers to add weight to make it seem authentic.

As he left work, he didn't notice anything wrong with the turkey he was carrying home. It looked and felt okay. So off he went on his way home with his fake turkey ready to celebrate Thanksgiving.

While on the subway heading home, he could just imagine himself sinking his teeth into the delicious turkey. He and his family would have such a great celebration! With a smile on his face and a big turkey on his lap, he was on his way home.

After a few minutes, a man got on the subway and sat right next to him. He noticed how sad and poor this man looked. After awhile, he started a conversation with the man. He found out that the poor man was depressed because there wasn't going to be a Thanksgiving dinner for him and his family. Money was running very low and there simply wasn't enough money for an adequate celebration.

Before leaving the subway, he decided to give his turkey to the the poor man bringing the fake turkey home. For the next several days, he took a real turkey on the subway hoping to find that poor man. But with no success, he eventually gave up. "Only God knows the truth."

Meanwhile, not knowing the truth, the poor man and his family misjudged the nice man. They thought that he was a mean, insincere and hateful person.

Let us be reminded that sometimes we also may misjudge people. May God help us to not always be too quick to judge people.

For the Family

Summer may be an ideal time to spend more time with our spouses and families. The pace of life may slow down for at least some of us. Once the school year begins, parents and children may become increasingly busier. So let's spend our time well. Let's take advantage of the opportunities to enjoy doing things with our families.

One of the things we may consider doing is going to an entertaining magic show. Last Tuesday, my wife and I went to the magic show at the Hale Koa Hotel. It was the second time for me and the first time for my wife. We both had an enjoyable evening.

The dinner show was held in the pleasant atmosphere of the Banyan Tree Showroom. There were a number of families enjoying the buffet dinner and the magic and juggling performances. The all-you-can-eat Mexican Italian buffet included spaghetti, chicken, mahimahi, fruit and vegetable salad bar, plus an array of desserts. There was more than enough food to go around.

See you there!

poor man. He thought that he and his family could probably find something else to eat this Thanksgiving. As he left, the poor man looked really happy because now he had a surprise for his family.

Upon arriving home, the nice man got a telephone call from his friends asking him, "Did the fake turkey taste good?!" Following the call, all he could think about was August!!! August normally marks the time of year when we start winding down, and reflect on our accomplishments during the year. However, with an impending inspection looming on the horizon, we must press on and train a little bit harder. Pallets must be built up, generating aircraft must be accomplished, personnel must be processed, equipment must be packed. All this means a long, hard weekend for us all. That is the nature of the business we've agreed to be a part of, so, let's roll up our sleeves and get the job done... We have just about received all the MSIP aircraft, assigned to us, and have transferred out most of our old airplanes. Much aloha and mahalo to all who participated in inspecting our new planes, prior to and after their arrival here. We did the entire transfer on schedule, with no injuries, and also changed out the type of fuel we use on the airplanes. We head into this weekend's exercise with all MSIP airplanes, which is an accomplishment and a credit to all... Congrats to the following individuals who got promoted recently to the rank indicated.....

- LTC Phil Tokunaga
- MSgt Clayton Yuen

Wear 'em with pride... Don't forget the party!!! Congrats are also in order for Brigadier General Allen Mizumoto, our former Deputy Commander for Maintenance, now the Commander, HIANG, as he pins on his 'STARS' this weekend. Well deserved, sir!!! SMSgt. Sam Saffery of the Quality Assurance section will be heading up a team of specialists from the Flight Line and POL to descend upon Elmendorf AFB, Alaska, to learn all about Hot Pit Refueling. We will be getting into that program shortly and we'll need trainers to teach our guys how to get the job done. Hope the salmon are running!!! The 10th Annual CAM Sq Recognition Banquet is scheduled for October 9 (Friday) at the Hale Koa Hotel. Thanks to your support of the Zippy's Chili sale, we are again able to have this dinner for $15.00 per person. Tickets are available now, so see your supervisors. Seating is limited, so get your tickets early. You can also make reservations at the Hale Koa Hotel if you want to stay overnight. Call the hotel to make arrangements. To the KUKAILIMOKU staff, I'm really skosh for news this month as you can see by the length of this article. Sorry, hope to have more news next month... Until then, "Some people have nothing to say, but you have to listen a long time to find out."

A Healthy Welder

When a welder strikes an arc, fumes, gases and high-intensity ultra-violet light are given off. These hazards can cause ill-health effects to the worker. Though these hazards are a fact of life for a welder, they can be minimized through employee training, protective equipment and engineering controls, such as proper ventilation and opaque welding shields.

All welding processes produce fumes whose chemical composition is determined by the base metal, the electrode, and any preservative coating on the metal itself. Toxic gases, such as carbon monoxide, nitrogen dioxide, ozone and phosgene, may be formed in the welding process.

High intensity ultra-violet (UV) light, emitted by welding arcs, produce gaseous air contaminants and skin burns. "Welder's flash", caused by looking at an arc without appropriate eye protection, can occur.

Welders tend to work in confined spaces, periodically, which can create a problem of retaining fumes and poor ventilation. Also, some welding work may produce atmospheres that are either oxygen-deficient or oxygen enriched. An oxygen-deficient environment causes acute exposure to toxic fumes and gases to the workers, causing illness, and sometimes death. An oxygen-enriched environment in confined spaces can cause sparks to ignite and cause unexpected fires.

Protection — welders should be informed of the nature of the hazards to which they may be exposed. This is a mandatory OSHA's Hazard Communication Standard.

All welders must use protective equipment, such as face shields, protective clothing, and gloves.

Examine your present ventilation system. A local exhaust system is needed to capture air contaminants at the source.

The live magic show and juggling act were enjoyed by adults and children alike. Curtis Kam is the illusionist-magician of the show, and he did a good job entertaining us with a variety of tricks. Just as entertaining was Greg Gabaylo, the master juggler. Greg Gabaylo's performance was incredible. He even juggled up to 5 balls. With skilled maneuvers, he performed with such perfection. He even ate an apple while juggling the apple and two huge knives. He juggled all kinds of items, including balls, knives, bottles, boxes, a bowling ball and you name it with such great coordination. You must see this guy perform.

If you are interested in the dinner show, the price is $17.95 for adults and $9.95 for children under 12 (gratuity included). If you plan on going, here are some tips: (1) make reservations in advance so that you can reserve a whole table for yourself (usually four per table), (2) be on time because the line to the food can get long, (3) you will need your military I.D. card, and (4) relax and enjoy yourself because you deserve a break.

I hope the above information is helpful to your family. Just make sure you spend adequate recreation time with your family. If you want more information that will help your family or other families, have your spouse or family member consider joining a family support group. To do this, contact your unit.

Findings of a Recent Substance Abuse Study

FINDING: Military people are significantly less likely than civilians to abuse any type of drug. According to the study, only 8.4% of service members age 18 to 55 reported using drugs within the past month as compared with 24.1% of civilians in the same age group.

FINDING: Women service members are significantly more likely than their civilian counterparts to smoke one or more packs of cigarettes per day. Male service members are more likely to use smokeless or chewing tobacco.

FINDING: Military personnel under the age of 26 are significantly more likely to drink and drink heavily, when compared with their civilian age group.

FINDING: Military personnel are more likely than civilians to have negative experiences associated with alcohol. These negative experiences include staying drunk for more than one day at a time, being drunk on the job or missing work because of a hangover. More than half (56%) of service members included in the study reported having negative experiences with alcohol while only 41% of civilians report having this type of experience.

WHAT DOES IT ALL MEAN? The "Military/Civilian Comparison of Alcohol, Drug and Tobacco Use" Report, commissioned by the Department of Defense, concluded that these findings suggest that military conditions may foster alcohol abuse. To further substantiate this conclusion, they state that nearly one third (30%) of service members feel that "drinking is part of being in the military." An even larger percentage (35%) say that they feel that drinking is encouraged at parties and/or social functions.

Based upon these findings, the Department of Defense believes it will have to intensify its efforts to combat alcohol abuse. For members in the HIANG, we must be aware that some of the conditions which support alcohol abuse by military members is also present in our civilian jobs. Based upon the DOD study, about 2 of every 3 civilian workers have been drunk on the job and/or missed work because they had a hangover. Using alcohol in moderation and at the proper times is the key. Want to know more about substance abuse and/or how to effectively deal with others? Contact Social Actions at 449-8000.

CBPO Connection

DEERS PRE-ENROLLMENT: Even though the initial pre-enrollment is over, the program is not. Members must continue to update changes in dependent information and we must continue to pre-enroll new members.

AIRCREW STYLE NAME PATCH (ASNP): The issue of wearing "ANG" instead of "USAF" on the second line of the ASNP on the BDUs was disapproved by HQ USAF. IAW IMC 92-1, 151650Z April 1992, members are authorized to wear the new ASNP. The ASNP is an optional wear and must be purchased by the member. Issuance will begin on or after the mandatory wear date of October 1, 1995. Those of you authorized to wear badges, may only wear one - the "most current" in relation to your current assigned duties.

OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPHS: Attention all officers, ANGRC recently changed the notification policy for those of you who need an official photo. Upon receipt of the official photo RIP, Records Section will insure the reason is correct and forward the original to your home address via certified mail, return receipt requested. A copy of the RIP will be forwarded to your commander and one copy will be filed in your records. We are no longer required to send follow-up letters for no shows. Remember, it is your responsibility to insure there is an up-to-date photo in your selection folder.

FIELD JACKET: The olive green field jacket wearout date has been changed from September 30, 1992 to a wearout date through attrition. Field jackets are "non-returnable" which means members are not required to turn them in.

AFOEA: Congratulations to HQ HIANG on their selection to receive the Air Force Organizational Excellence Award for 1992.

Congratulations to TSgt. Russell Campos and SSgt. Carol Yamaguchi on their recent graduation from NCO Academy. Russell was the recipient of the Military Achievement Award and Carol was a distinguished graduate and received the Communications Award. Good Job!!!

Do you find yourself frustrated by the length of time it takes to get something from the CBPO Training Office? Or for that matter, any section in CBPO? Did you know that each section within CBPO consists of one to three'ers and we serve approximately 2300

HIANG members? This means our service ratio for a typical three person section is approximately 750 to 1. I'm not trying to make any excuses for our delays, however, our heavy day-to-day workload can become almost unbearable at times when those last minute quotas come in, or special projects, or special requests, etc., are dropped in our laps. A month, when you're not here every day, may seem like a long time; but for those of us who keep things going between drills, it's not long enough. Believe me, we're all doing the best that we can to provide all of you the best service possible. Bear with us, for as the HIANG grows in strength, your CBPO has not been authorized any additional full-time or traditional guardsmen positions.

ORI Preparation

by Lt. Col. Peter S. Pawling, Project Officer

In May of this year, the 154 COMPG practiced a 12-pack mobility exercise. Interfacing with the 15th Air Base Wing for the first time, we established a good ORI preparation point from which to measure our strengths and identify areas which need improvement.

During this UTA, we practiced the 12-pack mobility plan, again. Emphasis was to make significant improvements over last May's mobility exercise and not have repeat discrepancies. Accomplishing a "no repeat" discrepancy objective rests largely with individual unit responsibilities and commander involvement with the process.

Come September UTA, we'll be going through the paces of an Air Defense of Hawaii scenario. Emphasis will be on exercising the "command and control" structure, sortie generation for CAMS, weapon load training, employment and target neutralization.

In October, we'll practice a "full dress" rehearsal by exercising a combined mobility and flying scenario.

Maximum participation will be a key to the success of this exercise. Active duty days (AT) will be utilized. It is important that everyone plans ahead.
