ACTIVE GUARD RESERVE JOB VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

This supervisory position is responsible for overseeing all aspects of maintenance and repair for critical communication systems supporting the 298 Air Defense Group's Hawaii Air Defense Region (HADR) mission. This role ensures operational readiness and adherence to strict safety and technical standards. The communications work center supervisor will lead a team of up to five personnel, manage equipment and parts inventory, and maintain radio, satellite, and data communication systems, with specific expertise in routers, switches, and data circuits supporting the FPS-117 radar system. Key responsibilities include diagnosing and resolving network issues, ensuring compliance with maintenance and safety procedures, and optimizing system performance. The role requires proactive troubleshooting, analysis of inspection findings, and implementation of corrective actions. The supervisor will also establish maintenance requirements, requisition supplies, and evaluate proposed system modifications. Effective communication, adherence to technical publications, and proficiency in using schematics and diagrams are essential. This position demands a high level of dedication and availability, including on-call rotations and potential 24/7 shift work.
