First Quarter 1984

Cockett Promoted to Brigadier General

Irwin K. Cockett, Jr., commander of the nearly 3800 member Hawaii Army National Guard was promoted to Brigadier General on February 29, 1984.

General Cockett, 53, was appointed to his post as Hawaii's assistant adjutant general, Army, and commander of the Army Guard forces in Hawaii by Hawaii's Adjutant General, Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum, on April 15, 1983.

Born in Kilauea, Kauai, he attended Kamehameha Boys School and Roosevelt High School. He enlisted in the Army in 1949 at Schofield Barracks and served as an infantryman in Korea during the Korean War.

General Cockett was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1952 and assigned to the 82nd Airborne Division. He served in Germany with the 10th Special Forces (Green Berets) until 1957 when he began a career in Army Aviation.

From May 1959 to January 1961 he served as an Aviation Platoon Commander with the 25th Aviation Company, 25th Infantry Division, Hawaii.

From June 1962 to January 1963, General Cockett served in Vietnam as personal pilot for the Commander, U.S. Military Assistance, Vietnam. He later served two other tours in Vietnam, one as Commander of I Corps Aviation Company and one as Executive Officer, 269th Combat Aviation Battalion.

He returned to Hawaii in 1969 as Chief, Logistics Information Branch, U.S. Army

Pacific. In 1970 he became Army advisor to the Hawaii Army National Guard's 29th Infantry Brigade and served in that position until his retirement from the active Army in December 1971.

General Cockett joined the Hawaii Army National Guard in 1972 as an aviation safety officer and flight instructor. Five years later he was named commander of the Guard's Aviation Support Facility at Wheeler Air Force Base. December 1982 he was appointed Chief of Staff of the Hawaii Army National Guard.

He and his wife Elizabeth live in Waikiki. He has three daughters — Mylabeth, Yokette and Punahelu.

Hawaii Guard — 91st Anniversary

Governor George R. Ariyoshi marked the 91st anniversary of the Hawaii National Guard by presenting a proclamation to Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum, the State Adjutant General, and his staff. The proclamation designated January 27, 1984 "Hawaii National Guard Day," and cites the meritorious service record of the state militia during natural disasters and emergencies.

The Hawaii National Guard was born in the aftermath of the overthrow of the Hawaiian Monarchy on January 27, 1893. The provisional government, which deposed Queen Liliuokalani, passed an act providing for the formation of the National Guard of Hawaii.

Since its early beginnings, Hawaii's militia has grown from a force of less than one thousand men in 1915, to more than 5,700 men and women in 1984.

The Guard has distinguished itself throughout its history. Its members have fought and died in both World Wars, and, more recently, in South Vietnam.

The National Guard of Hawaii was on active duty at Schofield Barracks when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. In fact, the first Japanese prisoner of World War II was captured at Waimanalo by an island Guardsman, Master Sgt. David Akui, who was on guard duty on the evening of December 7th.

In 1968, nearly 3,000 men from the Hawaii Army National Guard's 29th Infantry Brigade were called on active duty to fight in the jungles of South Vietnam. Twenty guardsmen died serving their country.

During that same period, Hawaii Air National Guard fighter pilots flew as escorts for U.S. bombers in Southeast Asia. During that same period, Hawaii Air National Guard fighter pilots flew as escorts for U.S. bombers in Southeast Asia.

When Hurricane Iwa struck on November 23, 1982, ten Guard members on Kauai performed great acts of courage and were awarded medals for their heroism.

Governor Ariyoshi noted, "The Hawaii National Guard is comprised of a dedicated corps of outstanding citizen soldiers," and called on his fellow citizens to join him in supporting the future endeavors of the Guard.

Command Notes

It's been a year since my appointment as the Adjutant General and I would like to pass on some insights as we look ahead toward Annual Training 1984 and beyond.

We have made substantial progress in the areas of construction and equipment procurement. The completion of the Army Aviation Support Facility and armory at Wheeler Air Force Base and the 201st Combat Communication Flight's multiple use center in Maui will undoubtedly enhance our operational and training capabilities. We are also looking forward to the acquisition of the Hawaii Regional Operations Control Center (HIROCC) which should be operational this summer.

However, facilities and equipment provide us with only the means to accomplish our missions. We must still rely on our people to achieve our single, most important goal—raising our readiness posture. The key elements in that regard are, and always will be, leadership and training.

As I see it, the primary role of our leaders, officers and enlisted, is to identify the strengths and weaknesses of their units in order to prescribe the training to improve performance. It requires re-evaluating one's priorities to correct deficient areas first. It may also require limiting training tasks during a certain drill period to concentrate on problem areas.

I also expect our leaders to evaluate and monitor their units' progress to insure we are meeting our objectives. As Will Rogers once said, "even if you're on the right track you'll get run over if you just sit there."

In the months ahead, let us continue to move forward with determination and purpose to raise our readiness posture.

ANG Toughens Standards on No-Vacancy NCO Hikes

WASHINGTON — The Air National Guard has tightened its eligibility requirements for promoting members to the grades of staff, technical and master sergeant without regard to a unit manning document vacancy.

Promotions without vacancy formerly were made under the Special Promotion Program. With the tougher requirements, however, the SPP has been redesignated the Deserving Airman Promotion Program.

The new program, effective January 1, is designed to slow down such promotions and help units meet ANG manning goals, officials said. Under it, no promotions to staff, technical and master sergeant may be made without regard to unit vacancy unless they meet the following criteria:

- Manning in the member's AFSC cannot exceed 100 percent within the unit and the person being promoted must be the only one assigned to his or her UMD position.

- The promotion must not make the member senior in grade to his or her immediate supervisor.

- A member cannot be promoted more than one grade above the one authorized for his or her UMD position.

- All time-in-service and time-in-grade requirements must be in creditable or good years.

Here are the specific requirements by grades:

- Staff sergeant — Requirements for E-5 promotions have remained the same, officials said. Individual still must have at least five years TIS and 12 months TIG.

- Technical sergeant — Member must (1) have at least 12 years TIS and 36 months TIG; (2) hold seven level in the AFSC of the position in which he or she is assigned; (3) have served the 12 months immediately preceding the promotion in the ANG; and (4) have completed an Air Force or ANG leadership school, or a higher level professional military education course (in residence or correspondence). Officials said that previously the TIG requirement was 18 months; there was no ANG service requirement, and PME was "desirable" but not mandatory.

- Master sergeant — Member must (1) have at least 20 years TIS and 96 months TIG; (2) hold seven level in the AFSC of the position in which he or she is assigned; (3) have served the 24 months immediately preceding promotion in the ANG; and (4) have completed an Air Force or ANG NCO Academy course or higher level PME course (in residence or correspondence). The TIS and TIG requirements remained the same, officials said, but the 24-month ANG service requirement is new, as is mandatory PME.

Officials stressed that promotions without regard to unit vacancy are not considered a reward for past service, not automatic when a member attains minimum eligibility and should be considered only for members who have the necessary abilities to perform in a higher grade. They said that commanders should evaluate members using the "whole person" concept to ensure that only outstanding individuals are promoted.

Plan Calls for More Than Doubling Re-up Bonuses for NG, Reserves

By Larry Carney
Army Times Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — Reenlistment bonuses for National Guardsmen and Army Reservists serving in high-priority units and in critical MOSs would be more than doubled under a proposal being considered by Army personnel officials.

The proposal would increase the Reserve Component bonus for a three-year reenlistment from $900 to $2500 and for a six-year reenlistment from $1800 to $5000.

The authority to seek the increase was given by Gen. Maxwell R. Thurman, Vice Chief of Staff, after he received reports that Guard and Reserve recruiting was not doing as well as anticipated. Any bonus increase would need the approval of the Defense Department and Congress.

Under current policy, bonuses range from $900 to $1800 for reenlisting Guardsmen and Reservists assigned to a Category I-VI (high-priority) unit and those serving in one of 72 predesignated critical skills in a non-priority unit.

While efforts have been made by military organizations to expand the reenlistment program to all Reservists, only 60 percent are now eligible for the stipend, an official said. "There are no plans by the Army to seek an expansion of the RC reenlistment bonus program," he said.

Thurman also told the Guard and Reserve to put more emphasis on recruiting prior-service people and gave the Army Reserve authority to hire 100 additional full-time recruiters.

Another change approved by Thurman will give Guard and Reserve units with good recruiting records authority to recruit above their authorized strength ceilings.

IG Cash Awards

The Secretary of Defense has announced a new program to provide cash awards to employees who report Department of Defense problems or recommend solutions to problems, to the Inspector General.

The program supplements existing departmental award programs by providing a way for employees to be recognized and rewarded for bringing problem areas to the attention of the Inspector General. Under the program, cash awards up to $10,000 can be paid to individuals or groups of individuals for disclosures of fraud, waste and mismanagement which result in significant cost savings to the Department. Awards of more than $10,000, but not more than $20,000, can also be recommended to the President for his consideration.

Disclosures can be made by writing to the Defense Hotline, The Pentagon, Washington, DC or by calling Autovon 233-5080. The local Washington number is (202) 693-5080.

Although the program is presently limited to civilian employees of the Department, efforts are being made to effect the changes necessary to the public law to make this Inspector General program applicable to military personnel.

Employees are still encouraged to pursue allegations through the chain of command before contacting the Inspector General, DOD.

DOUBLE HONORS - 2nd Lt. Myles M. Moriguchi receives the Reserve Officers' Association Citizen Soldier Award from Maj. Gen. Leroy Bartman, Air National Guard Assistant to Commander, Air Training Command in Alcoa, Tennessee on December 1, 1983. ## Spotlight

Camara, Selective Service

By Capt. Bud Bowles

Colonel Norman F. Camara, Officer-in-Charge of the Hawaii Army National Guard Selective Service Section.

The state director of Hawaii's selective service system has advice for 18-year-old males that could keep many of them out of "hot water" for a violation that 8 percent of them are committing.

"Tell them to register for the lottery system at their nearest post office, and keep the post office system current on any change of address," says Colonel Norman F. Camara, who has headed Hawaii's selective service system for four years. As a Guardsman, Camara also heads the selective service section of the Hawaii National Guard, a position he has filled since 1967.

Reservists must also register into the system.

Failure to register is a federal offense and carries a maximum fine of $10,000 or five years in prison, or both.

"Many 18-year-olds are not aware of the possible problems faced by failure to register, up to 120 days before or 31 days after their 18th birthday," says Camara.

Hawaii is especially neglect in its response to registration. The state's registration rate, only 92 percent of eligible males, ranked 50th in the 54 states and territories that have selective service registration. Only four areas -

Colonel Norman F. Camara, Officer-in-Charge of the Hawaii Army National Guard Selective Service Section.

Guam, Puerto Rico, New York and California have a smaller percentage of 18-year-olds registering.

The Guard's Selective Service system remains a mystery to many. They meet alone in Diamond Head's Harlow Tunnel. Contrary to the guesses of the uninformed, they have no names and make no deferment decisions. However, in the event of a draft, the unit is responsible for establishing volunteers and creating civilian boards to hear deferments. Should there be a call-up, the unit is training to handle the draft at draft boards set up throughout the islands.

Hawaii has 11 local boards consisting of five members each. Six boards are on Oahu with the other five on the outer islands. The boards function is to decide on deferments, should there be a draft.

The major task of the unit now remains to inform Hawaii's youth of their obligation and legal responsibilities. The members of the section, from both the Army Guard and Reserves, continually talk to school students and counselors about the need to register and the selective service system.

After dealing with the selective service system since 1967, Camara has high praise for its benefits.

"Its the best insurance policy we have. . . and it enables a youth to plan his future. . . without it, there would be more uncertainty during the time of a draft."

Such an unusual analysis shows its merit as Camara explains how the system works. Without the lottery, a youth does not know his chances of being called up during a draft. With a lottery, there is a given risk period for being called up: a youth must register at 18, lottery number will be pulled at 19, and, at the age of 20, those with low lottery numbers are vulnerable for being drafted for one year.

"I think that the 18-year-olds just do not know about the requirement and its penalties for failing to register," said Camara.

Camara retires next year, but his dedication is evident. He will remain in his civilian capacity as the state director of the selective service — all on a volunteer basis.

"Someone has to do the job, and I believe in the system," he concluded.

Team Spirit '84

By 2nd Lt. Curtis Matsushige

More than 250 members of the Hawaii Army and Air National Guard will be involved in two weeks of rigorous annual training in Korea during the months of March and April.

In Korea, the guardsmen will be involved in exercises with American ground, Naval, Air, and Marine forces that are currently stationed there and with the Republic of Korea Army Forces. The Hawaiian Guardsmen will also be training with guardsmen from other states.

Team Spirit is a combined joint exercise planned to improve combat readiness and as the name indicates, to transform the American and Korean military forces into a single force that can effectively and efficiently operate together.

Special operations during the exercise will involve the Hawaii Guardsmen in rapid deployment out of country, reception into a foreign base of operation, using equipment and personnel in realistic training environment, staging scenarios to respond to possible contingencies in the Korean theater, and aid in the refinement of the Department of Defense's Air-Land Doctrine.

This is the ninth Team Spirit to be conducted in Korea since June of 1976 and is evidence of our president's pledge to maintain and strengthen the forces of the United States in Korea.

According to First Sergeant Edger W. Alexander of the 291st Maintenance Company, Heavy Equipment, about 48 of the 130 soldiers for the Hawaii Army National Guard participating in this year's Team Spirit in Korea will be returning to the country.

In Korea, the 291st will hook up with the 520th Maintenance Company of the 194th Battalion in Camp Humphrey in South Korea. Unlike in '79 when the 291st worked in a depot setting in Camp Carroll, the company will service equipment that is earmarked for specific units in Korea and most likely be used in actual team Spirit exercises.

The men of the 291st will be taking their personnel tool boxes but will otherwise rely on the 520th for the bulk of the equipment needed to make repairs.

First Sgt. Alexander said that the highlight of the trip will probably be the off weekend. Many of the soldiers may bus the hour and a half to Seoul to go shopping and take advantage of the bargain goods that are sold in Korea.

The Maintenance Company will depart for Korea on April 14 with a tentative return date of April 28th and be flying on commercial transportation.

Special

This Korea deployment will mark First Sergeant Edger W. Alexander's last annual training with the Hawaii Army National Guard. When he retires in January 1985 he will have completed more than 41 years of service with the military and federal government.

The 201st Combat Communications Group of the Hawaii Air National Guard will send approximately 170 men and women to Korea to participate in Team Spirit '84.

An advance party of telephone installers, reception cadre, and motorpool personnel has already been sent ahead of the main group to ready the areas of operation. Much of the more than 300 tons of equipment to be used by the 201st will be military sealifted prior to the actual deployment of personnel.

The Hawaii Air National Guard will provide telephone service, radio communications, air traffic control, and train on Hi-tech electronic air defense equipment during their annual training in Korea.

Units participating in the deployment include the Air Guards Headquarters of the 201st Combat Communications Group with additional men and women from units in Hilo, Maui, and Kauai.

The main body of 102 Air Guard personnel are scheduled for departure from Hickam Air Force Base on March 11 via Military Airlift Command (MAC) Chartered B-747 aircraft and return March 30th on MAC Chartered B-747 aircraft.

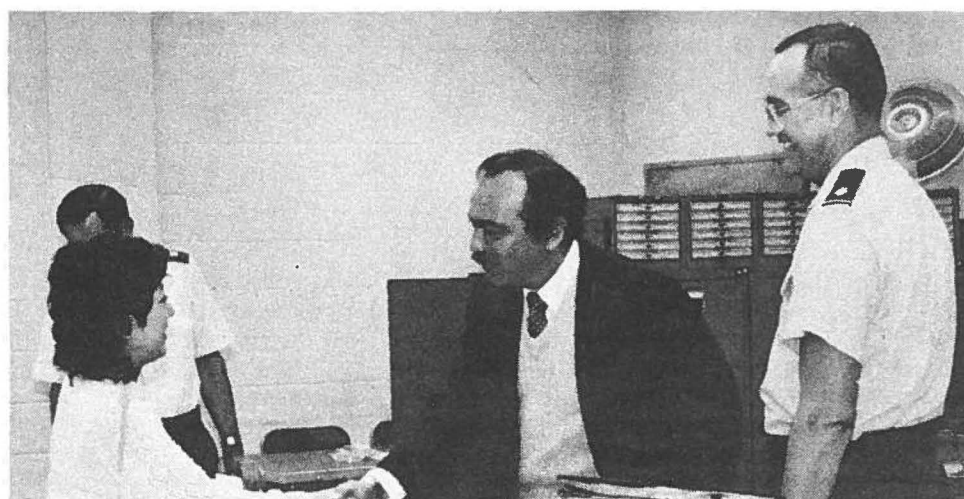

This is the eighth consecutive year that the Air Guard has participated in Team Spirit. They originally began with a small contingency in 1977 and has grown to its present involvement in the Korean deployment.

Support 154th COMPG and 169th ACWS Open House

The 154th Composite Group Open House will be held at 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. on May 6, 1984. With the large turnout expected for the event your support is needed to obtain about 200 more chairs for families and friends during lunch (The Open House Committee would rather spend money for a good lunch instead of renting chairs).

If anyone has access to chairs from a church or club please contact Master Sergeant Rod Correa at 449-9210. Arrangements will be made to pick up and return all chairs.

The 169th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron Open House will be held on Saturday, July 14, 1984 at the HIROCC Bldg. 310. Squadron members, immediate families and invited guests are invited to tour the new facility and join in the festivities planned for that day. The time is tentatively scheduled from 1000 to 1400 with lunch beginning at 1130. Reporting time will be 0730. An elaborate lunch, games and entertainment are being planned. Any questions or suggestions regarding the Open House should be directed to Lt. Sanford Ching, phone 655-1731.

Readiness

Heavy Training Schedule For 154th Composite Group

Units of the 154th Composite Group have been involved in a number of training exercises since the beginning of the year, including COPE CAGE, COPE ROAD and SENTRY TIGRE 84.

A quarterly joint military aid defense exercise, Cope Cage was conducted in and around Hawaii January 14. Personnel and equipment from the Air Force, Marine Corps, Navy and Federal Aviation Administration joined with units of the 154th in an exercise designed to test the capability of the Hawaiian Air Defense System and the Hawaii Air National Guard to respond to simulated air attacks. The Guards ability to relaunch F-4C Phantoms quickly after the jets returned from missions was put to the test.

Hawaii is the only state that relies solely on the Air National Guard for its air defense. The Hawaii Air National Guard has been on 24-hour alert 365 days a year since 1956 and presently maintains two F-4C aircraft and crews on continuous alert status.

Cope Cage was followed by the dissimilar air combat tactics exercise Sentry Tigre 84. 162nd Tactical Fighter Group from Tuscon International Airport, Arizona deployed to Hawaii with six A-7 aircraft supported by three KC-135 tankers. They created a multi-bogey environment for a simulated mini-war involving Hawaii Air National Guard F-4Cs, Marine Corps F-4s and Air Force T-33s. Other guard forces, including the 150th and 169th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, 154th Combat Support Squadron, Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron and Federal Aviation Administration provided support to the 199th Tactical Fighter Squadron as they employed their aircraft in four ship tactics instead of the usual two ship configuration. The week long operation provided aircrews with another look at how a potential enemy might fight us in the air.

Between January 4 and February 2, 19 officers and 83 enlisted members of the 154th COMPG deployed to Anderson AFB, Guam for the ten day air defense exercise COPE ROAD. While in Guam, Guard F-4Cs and their supporting crews were involved in 36 sorties. The exercise tested the Hawaii Air National Guard deployment capabilities while providing total force field training and air crew training in a simulated wartime scenario.

Hanapepe Armory

The Hawaii Army National Guard's Hanapepe Armory was officially reopened on January 20, 1984.

The 44-year-old facility sustained extensive structural damage to its roof, front wall, and interior when Hurricane Iwa struck on November 23, 1982. External facilities and grounds were also left in a shambles, strewn with mud and debris.

Restoration of the structure began in March 1983 and took seven months to complete. The federal government provided $122,838.00 for repair of the armory, while the State of Hawaii paid $50,520.75. The cost of repairs totalled $173,358.75. The State Department of Defense engineering office coordinated and supervised the project. Roy Iwamoto Construction and Kauai Builders, Ltd., completed the restoration in October 1983.

Dignitaries from the public and private sector participated in the rededication ceremony including Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum, the State Adjutant General Brig. Gen. Irwin K. Cockett, Jr., Commander of the Hawaii Army National Guard; Kauai Mayor Tony Kunimura; County Council Chairman Raymond Duvauchelle; and Councilman Ron Kouchi.

Platoon Sergeant Daniel G. Peters, Co. A, 1st Battalion, 299th Infantry presided over the ceremony, calling the armory his "proud lady." Mrs. Emmaline English, Office Manager for Company B, planned and coordinated the festivities which included lunch and refreshments.

The Hanapepe armory is now the home of the newly formed Company A, which was temporarily housed at the Kapaa Armory. Company A has 110 members and is commanded by 1st Lt. Levon Wong.

Superkids

Nearly 300 Big Island children participated in the "SUPERKIDS PLUS!" competition which was sponsored by the American Lung Association of Hawaii with the help of the Hawaii Army National Guard.

About 100 soldiers — all members of the Hawaii Army National Guard's 2nd Battalion/299th Infantry — volunteered to prepare the field for the day's events which included a 50-yard dash, potato sack race and a softball throw.

The Big Island soldiers also took charge of running the three events which began at 8:30 a.m. at the Hawaii Army National Guard Armory on Hilo Airport Road across from the post office.

The fund raising event was open to all Big Island children between the ages of 6 thru 12. The overall winner, Lawrence Kaloi III, won a free trip to Honolulu. Other high scores won trophies and ribbons.

The "PLUS" during this year's "SUPERKIDS PLUS!" was a big bazaar for the parents to enjoy while the children competed. The bazaar was handled by Hilo American Lung Association volunteers who was there to assist with the sales of plants, lau-lau and garage sale items. Proceeds of the competition and bazaar will further the Hilo chapter toward its goal for the prevention and control of lung disease.

Amy Hamane, Big Island field director for the A.L.A., praised the support the "SUPERKIDS PLUS!" competition has received from Colonel Henry Hara, Commander of the 2nd Battalion, in previous years. From 1978 to 1980 when other fund raising activities were undertaken, the Hawaii Army National Guard has participated in the SUPERKIDS program.

"The one outstanding feature of our past SUPERKIDS events were parents expressing how impressed they were with the organization of the SUPERKIDS, Hamane said. "We couldn't have done it with the support of the Hawaii Army National Guard.

"Over and over again, they'd say that the Hawaii National Guard soldiers were so loving and kind to their children as they took them through each of the events and they were so organized."

The Hawaii Army National Guard also has assisted with the SUPERKIDS program on Kauai and Maui in past years.

The Hilo American Lung Association hopes to raise a total of $15,000 through today's competition and bazaar to fight lung disease.

The top Superkid overall winner was 6-year-old Lawrence Kaloi III, who attained a total score of 441 points. He is a student at Hilo Union Elementary School and the son of Mrs. Evonne Kaloi. He won a trip to Oahu for his performance.

- Other winners were:
- 6 yr. old - girls - Krystal Nakamoto
  - 7-8 yr. old - girls - Lisa Kasamoto
  - 7-8 yr. old - boys - Alika Bumatay
  - 9-10 yr. old - girls - Leinaala Kauhi
  - 9-10 yr. old - boys - Royed Lukzes
  - 11-12 yr. old - girls - Dorianne Yamada
  - 11-12 yr. old - boys - Shannon DeMatos

SUPER TEAM - Six year old Carla Ah Sing of Hilo and SSgt. Lance Benevids, of Co. A, 2/299th Infantry, Hawaii Army National Guard, team up in Hilo's "SUPER KIDS" competition. The event was sponsored by the American Lung Association of Hawaii on Saturday, February 11, 1984. (Photo by SFC Wayne Iha.)

BLOOD DRIVE - Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum has his temperature and blood pressure taken before becoming the first Adjutant General of Hawaii to donate blood to the Blood Bank of Hawaii. Forty-six other guardmembers donated blood at the 487th armory on January 23, 1984.

38 Win Honolulu Marathon

By 2nd Lt. Angela Gibson, and Barrie Trebor-MacConnell

Dedicated, disciplined and determined are traits which aptly describe the men and women of the Hawaii National Guard. Never were those traits more evident than on December 11, 1983 when 38 members of the Guard challenged the 11th Annual Honolulu Marathon.

From Aloha Tower to Hawaii Kai and back to Kapiolani Park, the 38, varying in rank from the Hawaii Army National Guard Commander, Brig. Gen. Irwin K. Cockett, Jr., to Airman Craig K. Katsuda of the 154th Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron, attacked the 26.2 mile course and won.

"I was especially pleased to see a good number of the Guard running," said Gen. Cockett, who was participating in his second marathon. "Knowing so many finished is a real inspiration and speaks well for our total health program."

1st Lt. Patrick Hyland, Headquarters, Headquarters Company, 29th Infantry Brigade was the first Guard member to finish. He covered the course in 2 hours 52 minutes 8 seconds. An experienced marathoner and tri-athlete, he placed 126th in the field of 8435.

Spec. 5 Gaudelio R. Casal of the 329th Field Service Company finished in a time of 3 hours 28 minutes 32 seconds. It was his fifth Honolulu Marathon and 18th long distance race of the year, including one Triathlon.

"I started running for the health benefits but then I got hooked," said Spec 5 Casal. "Now I run to relax. Its a great way to unwind."

Andretta S.M. Choy of the United States Property and Fiscal Office, the only Guard civilian to run, was completing her fourth marathon. She also has one 50 kilometer (31

Marathon Runners Wanted

Members of the Army and Air National Guard who are distance runners are urged to contact Major Steve Berg at 655-1775 for information on becoming a member of the Hawaii National Guard Marathon Team. These runners will represent Hawaii at the Lincoln Nebraska Marathon in May 84. Thirty-five Guard runners from all states will then be invited to represent the National Guard at other events, possibly the Marine Corps Marathon at Washington D.C. These thirty-five runners will comprise one 5 person Masters team (aged 40 and over), one 5 member Womens team, and five Open Division teams.

Anglers Wanted

The 150th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron will host its 4th Annual Goodwill Ahi Tournament on Kauai from May 23-25, 1984. All Hawaii Air National Guard anglers are invited to participate. Tournament rules and official entry forms will be forwarded to all HANG units.

Master Sergeant Lester Matsushima is the tournament chairman. He assures all participants that his timing is terrific and the action in the waters around Kauai will be great for the elusive ahi. He steering committee is working very hard to make this another successful and memorable event.

A mandatory meeting of all team captains is scheduled for May 22 at a specific place and time to be announced. The Awards Banquet will be held on Saturday evening, May 26.

mile) ultra-marathon to her credit. She missed her PR (personal record) of 4 hours 27 minutes but said she was happy with her effort.

"I was running with friends and we kept a slow pace," she commented, adding, "I use to be the only one in my office who was a runner but now there are several of us. Its great to have company, especially on the training runs."

For Col. Donald Oura, 29th Brigade Commander, it was a new experience.

"It was my first marathon. I made it a goal earlier in the year," the colonel said. "It was a good feeling. It was exciting. I am looking forward to doing it again in 1984."

Staff Sgt. Gerald Espiritu of Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 297th Supply and Service Battalion had perhaps the "heaviest" reason to prepare for and run the 1983 marathon.

"In July I was put on the Guard's overweight program. I really hated to be labeled that. So, I started to run to lose weight and to get physically fit.

"If there is anything the Army has taught me its that you can get physically fit by running. I have not only surpassed the Guard's standards, I am feeling better than I have in ten years."

And so it went. 38 members of the Hawaii National Guard. All with the discipline to put in the long hours of training. All with the dedication to challenge the course. All with the determination to finish. And all justly proud of what they have accomplished.

To finish a marathon is to be a winner. Here are the names of all the 38 Hawaii National Guard members and staff who won the 1983 Honolulu Marathon.

National Guard Team Are Volleyball Champions of the 1983 Ft. Shafter Holiday Tournament

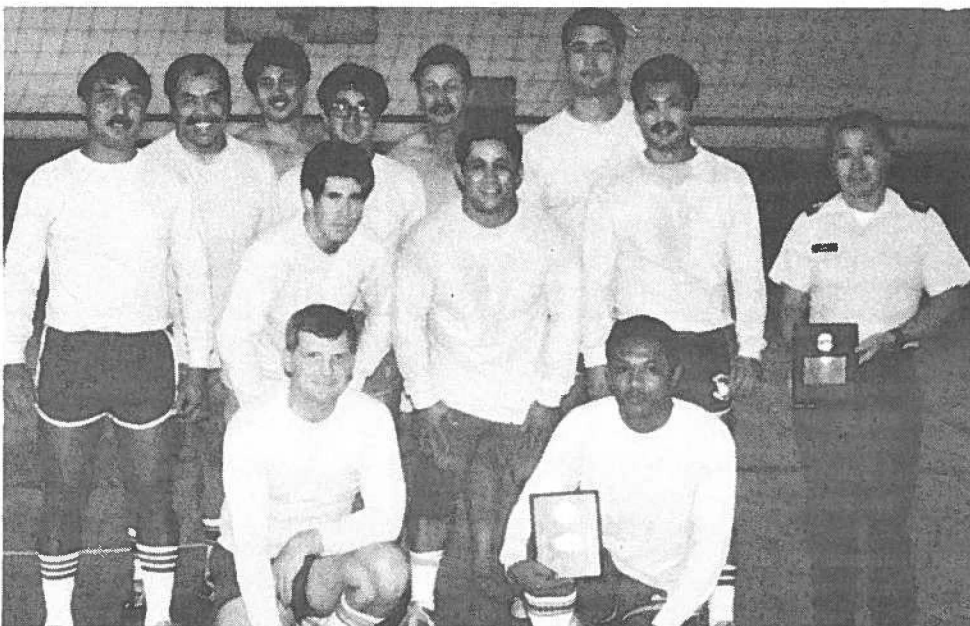

A team comprised of AGR and Active component members of the Hawaii Army National Guard won the Ft. Shafter Holiday Volleyball Tournament that was held at Ft. Shafter gym from December 19, 1983 to December 30, 1983. A total of 10 teams entered the tournament and, by the end, the Army National Guard team remained the only undefeated team with a 9-0 record. Comprised of members of the 1/487th FA, 1/299th Inf, Honolulu, HI STARC-HARNG and the 29th Inf Bde, these AGR and active component members were the only National Guard players in the tournament.

The HARNG team had an early lead in the tournament by winning their matches in two straight sets each game. The games were the best 2 out of 3 sets, 15 pts. each set.

Their endurance was tested during the second week of the tournament when they played against the Hq, USASCH Company team, who were the defending champions, and the 5th Transportation Company team. Both teams were also undefeated. The HARNG team fell behind in their match with the 5th Trans Co. early in the game, but managed to get things together and win the first set, 16-14. The second set was almost a repeat of the first and again the HARNG team almost fell victims by their hands. They finally managed to win the second set and the match, 17-15.

The Hq, USASCH team was defeated 15-4, 15-10, thus making the HARNG team the only undefeated team and champions of the tournament.

For a lot of the members of the HARNG team, it was a first time experience in tournament play.

Guard Runners Complete Perimeter Relay

A seven man relay team from the United States Property and Fiscal Office completed the 16th annual Oahu Perimeter Relay February 4-5 in a time of 21 hours and 10 minutes.

The team, consisting of Col. Melvin M. Ida, CW3 William L. Shea, Jr., SP4 Leland A. Tobias, SSG William A. Rose, Major Vern T. Miyagi, SFC Edward K. Akau, Jr. and SFC Oscar T. Nakamura, placed 28th in the Men's Open Division. They were supported during run by SSG Kiyoshi Arakawa, SP5 Edward K. Morse, SGT Ford T. Matsunaga and SP4 Tracy M. Mauiola, who acted as support vehicle drivers.

The 134 mile Perimeter Relay is often referred to as the "Ultimate Relay". Starting at Kapiolani Park in Waikiki, seven man teams complete 44 legs in a counter-clockwise direction around the island, finishing back at Kapiolani Park. The legs vary in distance and difficulty from an easy 1.8 miles to a rugged 5 miles of rough dirt and rock around Kaena Point on the North Shore. Each runner is required to run at least 5 legs although the order of rotation is optional.

Who got the tough Kaena Point leg? Why, Col. Ida, of course. After all, rank does have its privileges.
