wards lunch at Hale Koa

On July 11, 1986, a Department of Defense awards luncheon was held at the Hale Koa Hotel to honor nominees for the Adjutant General's Award, service awardees and retirees. A good number of departmental employees attended to support the awardees and retirees and made this a successful event.

Cris J. Moku, G-3 Office, Hawaii Army National Guard (HARNG), was announced the winner of The Adjutant General's (TAG's) Award. She was described as being a "highly motivated person" who provides advisory services and senior level clerical support to the HARNG security, operations, readiness status and training programs.

Other nominees for the TAG's award included Jane H. Kokubun, G-1 Office, HARNG; Melvin T. C. Lee, State Civil Defense; Obed Lukela, 291st Maintenance Co., HARNG; and Dorothy Rodrigues, 1st Battalion, 299th Infantry, HARNG. All nominees were highly praised in their nominations creating a tremendous obstacle in the selection process.

Service awardees recognized included Miyoko Higa, 2nd Battalion, 299th Infantry, HARNG, for 40 years of service; and recipients for 30 years of service were Chief Warrant Officer Robert C. Paoa, Combined Support Maintenance Shop #1, Master Sgt. Herbert S. Kuratsu, 169th Aircraft Control & Warning Squadron, HANG, and Master Sgt. Wayne Y. Soma, 154th Combat Support Squadron, HANG. These awardees represented a combined total of 130 years of dedicated service and devotion to duty.

The final event of the luncheon honored the departmental retirees. They included Col. Raymond T. Moriguchi, Headquarters, Hawaii Air National Guard, executive support staff officer, who retires with over 32 years of service. Senior Master Sgt. Lewis K. Kono, who served for almost 36 years, retires from the 154th Composite Group, HANG, as an aircraft mechanic foreman. Master Sgt. Francisco T. Tabar, former warehouse worker at the U.S Property & Fiscal Office, retires with a remarkable 43 years of service. His federal employment started in 1942 with the War Department Engineers. Platoon Sgt. Filemon M. Nanod retires as the unit administrator for Detachment 1, Combat Support Company, 1st Battalion, 299th Infantry, HARNG. He served for more than 37 years and was recently recognized in the Maui News for his leadership of Molokai's scout platoon, "Rat Patrol."

Each retiree had the opportunity to make a few personal comments. Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum, adjutant general, closed the event with final comments of appreciation for the distinguished service to the department by all the

Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum The Adjutant General

The Hawaii National Guard, both Army and Air, has many adjustments and changes that will take place in the next year. Two examples are the conversion of the 29th Infantry Brigade to a Separate Infantry Brigade and the acquisition of the F-15 Eagles by the 199th Tactical Fighter Squadron to replace the current F-4 Phantoms. Even though these changes affect specific organizations, the "ripple" effect will be felt throughout the entire Department of Defense as we go into "high gear" to support these actions.

Also in the near future, we will be changing the State Headquarters from its long-standing Headquarters, Hawaii Army National Guard (HQ HARNG) title to the Hawaii State mmanc Area Command (HI STARC). The HI STARC configuration will provide the same command and control of subordinate units as HARNG, therefore it will be more of a title change than anything else.

During the last annual training period, we stressed safety and, in general, training was accident free. However, we did have several serious offduty accidents and incidents where our troops were injured. We must make an effort to control this area also. Only by command emphasis, training and, if necessary, control of off-duty activities can we alleviate these injuries. The leadership of the Hawaii National Guard, both officers and NCO's, must get involved in all aspects of safety. We can't afford the loss of our most valuable asset—people.

In some instances, I have noticed less than adequate emphasis on maintenance. Here again, it takes the constant attention of the entire chain of command to keep our equipment at the maximum level of readiness. We cannot overstress operator or individual maintenance, and we must provide the time for this level of maintenance to be properly performed.

Above all, time set aside for maintenance must be properly supervised.

We need to continue to work on recruiting and retention. Both the Hawaii Army and Air National Guard must work harder in this area. I have noticed a prevailing attitude that recruiting is the job of the full-time recruiting force only; additionally, that retention is someone else's job. This is not so, and I have said many times before—"I expect every member of the Hawaii National Guard to be a recruiter and most especially. . . I expect every commander and NCO to be a retainer." We must all pitch in to overcome the strength challenge. We are constantly saying that good training is the key to retention but good training is difficult to accomplish without the troops to work with. As an example, it is difficult to run a company-level exercise with two undersized platoons when in actuality it takes three platoons to make up the company. Most teaching points are lost and that lowest level rifleman does not get the correct picture of what should be happening.

We have made great strides in the area of family support issues but we still have a long way to go. We need to place more emphasis on establishing the "chain of concern" and provide this support chain with the tools to get the job done. The members of both the Hawaii Army and Air National Guard must be prepared for world-wide deployment in the event of mobilization no matter what their current peacetime missions may be.

Not to be forgotten, the State Civil Defense Division has continued to meet requirements and is making great strides in the updating of all plans and programs. There are several major exercises scheduled for the near future, and State Civil Defense will be heavily committed either as players or controllers. Nature has been kind to us in Hawaii and, much to the satisfaction of those in the emergency management arena, there have been no incidents or catastrophies to contend with.

I ask for your cooperation as our department experiences the many changes and growth anticipated in the future. I know that every member of the Department of Defense team is up to the challenges ahead of us, and we have a great future to look forward to.

screening in August, 1986

The Hawaii Army National Guard began screening its soldiers today for Human T-Lymphotrophic Virus Type-III (HTLV-III), the virus associated with the disease Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS).

Under an 18-month contract with the National Guard Bureau in Washington, UPJOHN Healthcare Services screened approximately 400 Hawaii Army Guard soldiers assigned to the 159th Maintenance Battalion and 329th Field Service Company. UPJOHN Healthcare Services will conduct their screening one day a month (Saturday) beginning on the island of Oahu. Hawaii Army Guard soldiers on the Neighbor Islands will be tested later.

The Secretary of Defense directed each armed services secretary to establish an HTLV-III testing program and policy for accession applicants and inservice members of both the active and reserve components.

ANG testing consistent with DoD

The Army National Guard testing program is consistent with the Department of Defense, Department of the Army and Air Force policy. The National Guard program is essentially no different from the active component and is required by DOD direction.

Damon Corporation was selected as the national contractor for the testing. Nationally, UPJOHN Healthcare services are screening at 3,000 sites across the nation.

If an individual is tested HTLV-III positive, notification and counseling will be done individually and privately by a qualified physician. Personnel who test HTLV-III positive will be sepa-

Military Commissaries to require photo I.D. for entry

Family members of National Guard and Reserve soldiers and airmen will soon need to show a photo ID to enter military commissaries.

The policy change, scheduled to take effect this fall, was made to prevent abuse of commissary privileges, according to Lt. Col. Douglas J. Lamude, Chief of the Military Entitlements Branch of the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

"Reserve component family members will still have to present a copy of the sponsor's orders with photo identification, whether it is a military ID, a driver's license or another form of identification accepted by the commissary," said Lamude.

BLOOD OR BREATH

FUSAL TO SUBMIT

HRS Chapter 286-155

If a person arrested for Driving Under the Influence of intoxicating liquor refuses a blood or breath test, none will be given. But the arresting officer will submit an affidavit to a District Court Judge stating the person:

- Had been driving or had control of the car.
- Had been informed of the sanctions of this section.
- Had refused to submit to a breath or blood test.

If the judge finds the statements of the affidavit to be true, the arrested person's license, permit, or non-resident operating privilege will be revoked as

• For a first revocation within the past 5 years, the driver's license will be revoked for 12 months. • For second and subsequent revocations, the driver's license will be revoked between 2 to 5 years.

If the arrested person does not have a license, the examiner of drivers will deny the issuance of a license or permit for the period of revocation listed above.

The arrested person who refuses the blood or breath test will also be referred to a Substance Abuse Counselor for an assessment of alcohol dependence and the need for treatment. The Court may require the person to obtain treatment. Cost of assessment and treatment will be paid by the penalized person.

Law Effective May 10, 1985.

Cockett bids farewell to HARNG

Brigadier General Irwin K. Cockett, Jr., Hawaii Army National Guard (HARNG) Commander, was honored at a farewell ceremony held in Diamond Head Crater on Sunday, August 24, General Cockett concluded 36 years of meritorious service to his state and country. He was awarded the Hawaii National Guard Medal for Merit at the ceremony. His previous 39 decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, two Distinguished Flying Crosses, three Bronze Stars and four Purple Hearts. He served as an infantryman in the Korean War, in the "original" Green Beret unit in Germany, and as a helicopter gunship pilot in Vietnam.

General Cockett reviewed the troops with the host commander, Major General Alexis T. Lum, state adjutant general; commander of the troops Colonel Gerald J. Silva, chief of staff, HARNG; and HARNG Command Sergeant Major William C. Mahaulu, Jr. Participating units were the 29th Infantry Brigade, commanded by Colonel Donald M. Oura; Headquarters Installation Command, commanded by Colonel Haruo Shigezawa; and the 111th Army band, commanded by Chief Warrant Officer J. David Castro.

General Cockett's association with the Hawaii Army National Guard began in December 1970 as the army advisor to the 29th Infantry Brigade, HARNG. In April 1972, he joined HARNG as an aviation safety officer and flight instructor and in September 1977 became the commander of the Guard's aviation support facility at Wheeler Air Force Base. In December 1982, General Cockett was appointed as chief of staff, HARNG, and six months later he was named commander, Hawaii Army National Guard, and assistant adjutant general, Army.

General Cockett is a native son of Koloa, Kauai. He is married to the former Elizabeth Huddy, and has three daughters: Mylabeth, Yokette and Punahele.

150th AC&WS and Superkids team effort

More than 80 members of the 150th Aircraft Control & Warning Squadron (ACWS) participated as starters, timers, event captains, group leaders, tape holders, bibbers, runners, and scorers for the 1986 Superkids program sponsored by the Kauai unit of the American Lung Association. The squadron's Security Police section provided the sharp-looking color guards for the parade and opening ceremonies. The program was held at the Vidinha Stadium in Lihue.

Approximately 200 children participated in events such as the 50-yard dash, potato-sack race and obstacle run. A new contest, the baby crawl, was added to the 1986 program.

This was the eighth year that the squadron has supported this program. According to Beverly Manner, field representative on Kauai for the American Lung Association, "We couldn't successfully conduct this program without the 150th's help."

Chief Castro remembers comradeship and concerts

When asked what he'll miss most about the Guard, Mr. Castro replied, "I guess what I'll miss most is the comradeship—the close relationships formed through the years. I will miss the concerts, the fellowship I shared with officers, the trips to the outer islands. Maybe now I can give back to my family that which they missed in the past."

will hand his conductor's baton to the new bandmaster, Gerald T. Nichols.

Despite his retirement, he continues to hope that the band will be invited back to Washington, D.C. for an inaugural parade. He describes the band as "professional men" deserving of national recognition. He says, "They may come from different walks of life, but they sure play the same tune and march to the same beat." He'd come along too, if invited, having missed his first opportunity due to illness.

The 111th Army Band has held a special place in his heart. As his wife, Harriet, states, "He married the band and then I married him, and he certainly does not let me forget which one came first."

Castro was born in Kalihi on October 1, 1926. He was one among three

"He married the band and then I married him." Harriet Castro brothers and two sisters. At a very young age, he was brought face to face with military battle when World War II started. His father, Julio De Castro, almost met his destiny while leading a crew of pneumatic cutting equipment experts to rescue 32 men of the ill-fated and sinking USS Oklahoma on December 7, 1941. Columbia Pictures will soon release a documentary giving special attention to this heroic rescue for which Julio De Castro was cited.

At age 15, David Castro left Kalakaua Intermediate School to work at bomb-torn Pearl Harbor, automatically making him an inactive Naval Reservist. At this time he was inspired by the Marine Corp band while watching their evening parades and ceremonies.

After the war he returned to his studies as a sophomore at Farrington High School. While there, he and buddy Bill Yuen, presently first sergeant in the band, were encouraged to join the National Guard Band. Together they have led the 111th to musical heights and national recognition.

In 1967 Mr. Castro took over the band and decided to continue his music studies to enable him to impact the knowledge he'd gain to the men he led. It is this quality that has inspired band member Sgt. Nolan Santa Ana to write a march on which is inscribed,

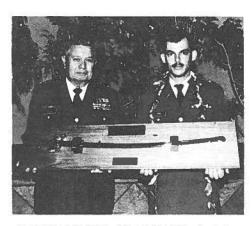

"Dedicated to CW4 'Chief' J. David Castro, bandmaster, 111th Army Band, HARNG, from 1967-1986, for 19 years of leadership and inspiration."

The closing years of his career were highlighted by the annual Christmas concerts. This project, an idea fostered by Adjutant General Alexis T. Lum and his wife, Momi, has permitted Mr. Castro to contribute to the spirit of ohana.

The Hawaii National Guard is very fortunate to have been touched by this man. He has inspired his unit to work hard and to do their best always because only then can they feel the sensation of accomplishment and success.

Nine Hawaii Army National Guard (HARNG) soldiers received their gold second lieutenant bars during commissioning ceremonies at the Hyatt Regency's Makai Ballroom. The new lieutenants, along with three soldiers who were not commissioned but received certificates of eligibility, graduated from the HARNG's Hawaii Military Academy Officer Candidate School.

2nd Lt. Ronald Heim, 1st Battalion, 299th Infantry, was selected as the Honor Graduate and was presented the Adjutant General's Award by Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum, state adjutant general. Additionally, Heim received the Erickson Trophy, given to the Distinguished Graduate. A replica of the trophy is kept at the National Guard Association Headquarters in Washington, D.C. Heim also received the Academic Board Award for maintaining the highest academic average.

The Hawaii National Guard Association and the Association of the United States Army leadership awards were presented to 2nd Lt. Kenrock K.S. Higa, Headquarters Installation Command. 2nd Lt. Stuart H. Williams, 1st Battalion, 299th Infantry, received the Teach Advice Council Officer Committee Award for his excellence in physical training. 2nd Lt. Jason Matsumura, 2nd Battalion, 299th Infantry, received the Commandant's Award for showing the greatest degree of improvement.

The 12 graduates, which included four women, successfully completed 13 months of military tactical, leadership and academic training on Hawaii and the mainland. The officers attended four weeks of training during the past two summers as well as 12 weekend drill sessions. The senior class completed the Army National Guard Officers Candidate School Phase III Consolidation Program at Camp Williams in Utah this summer.

This was the 24th graduating class since 1962. 2nd Lt. Terrence T. Ito, Headquarters Installation Command, was selected as the class valedictorian by his classmates.

After the oath of office was administered by Brig. Gen. Irwin K. Cockett, Jr., assistant adjutant general, Army, family members and friends pinned the gold bars on the new officers. Music for the graduation and commissioning ceremony was provided by the Hawaii Army National Guard's 111th Army Band.

A NEW PROGRAM

The Health Professional Loan Repayment Program (HPLR) is a new educational assistance program designed to attract and retain qualified medical and nursing commissioned officers in the Army National Guard. An officer participating in the HPLR can have up to $20,000 in outstanding eligible student loans repaid by the Guard. Loan repayment will be based at a rate of $3,000 or the remaining loan balance (whichever is less) for each complete and qualifying year of service performed under the HPLR.

A health professional can participate in this program if he/she:

Was first appointed as a commissioned officer on or after October 1, 1985 and is a satisfactory participant of the Guard.

Has been determined by the Office of the Surgeon General to be either a qualified Medical Corps officer who will be serving in a General Medical Officer position in a designated ARNG unit, or qualified in the following primary specialties:

- General Surgeon
- Thoracic Surgeon
- Orthopedic Surgeon
- Neurosurgeon
- Emergency Physician
- Anesthesiologist

- Nurse Anesthetist
- Medical-Surgical Nurse Is in good standing in the profession, and has a current and valid license and, if required, a specialty certification to practice.

For more information, interested Guard members and parties should contact the HARNG Incentive Manager at 737-2295.

FALL 1986 ACCELERATED SEMESTER

The next accelerated session will be the Fall 1986 Accelerated Semester which will be from October 1 to December 12, 1986. For the accelerated programs of the University of Hawaii-Manoa, University of Hawaii-Hilo, Chaminade University of Honolulu, and Hawaii Pacific College, registration has begun and will conclude during the first week of October. Those considering taking evening credit courses are advised to contact their college of choice immediately for registration information, dates, and times.

The Army Continuing Education System (ACES) can provide tuition assistance for up to two accelerated courses (undergraduate or graduate) per term. Based on command priorities and funding availability, ACES can defray 90% of tuition and lab fees for enlisted personnel with less than 14 years of service or 75% of similar charges for all others. Interested personnel are to contact CPT Wong, HARNG CivEd Officer, at 737-2295 for additional information.

Scholarship and Financial Aid for Advance Training to Residents of the State of Hawaii is published each year by the State Department of Education. This resource bulletin lists a great many scholarships, grants, loans, and workstudy available to those who wish to further their education either in Hawaii or elsewhere. It easily cross-references financial aids from private, business and industry, State and Federal sectors, and covers a wide range of programs of study at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Please note that this resource is mentioned for two reasons:

- Most of the financial aids listed can be used in conjunction with the educational assistance benefits or entitlements derived from your National Guard membership. It is therefore possible to creatively finance a "cost-free" college educa-
- Many of the financial aids listed are not being used. The money is there but not enough people seem willing to spend the time or energy investigating and applying for such opportunities.

If interested, check out this resource bulletin. A copy of it should be available for review at the nearest public library, local high schools, or at the HARNG Civilian Education Office, telephone number: 737-2295.

The Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) is a federally insured, student loan which can be used to defray the expense of a college education. What makes the GSL attractive is that:

- It can be used for both undergraduate and graduate studies.
- It has low-interest rates. For new borrowers, the rate is 8%; for those with existing GSL, 7% or 9%, depending on your loan.
- You don't start repaying your GSL until six (6) months after you have left school or dropped below a halftime student status.
- If a qualified enlisted Guard member, you can have the Student Loan Repayment Program (SLRP) repay this loan for you at the rate of 15% of the principal balance or $500, whichever is greater, plus related loan interest.

Based on your "financial need" and the cost of your education, the GSL allows you to borrow up to $2,500 per year, up to a maximum of $12,500, if an undergraduate student. If you are a graduate student, you can borrow up to $5,000 per year, up to a total of $25,000 to include any undergraduate loans.

The GSL is obtained from a financial institution such as credit unions and banks. Judging from the amount of recent advertising by the Bank of Hawaii and the Bank of Honolulu, the GSL is readily available for qualified individuals.

The 15th Annual Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the U.S. (EANGUS) conference was held in Boston, Massachusetts, on 6-9 August 1986.

Boston is a city filled with historic pageantry and patriotic names of the Nation's First Minutemen. Three hundred and 50 years have gone by since that initial muster and it was with great pride that the 15th Annual EANGUS Conference was held there to celebrate the National Guard's birthday "Where It All Began."

The 11 delegates who represented Hawaii at the EANGUS Conference were: Master Sgt. Wayne Soma, vice president (HANG) and EANGUS coordinator; Command Sgt. Maj. Mitsuo Hasegawa, treasurer (HARNG); Master Sgt. Ken Enoki, secretary (HANG); Command Sgt. Mai. Rámond Sakai, member (HARNG); Command Master Sgt. Tom Sato, member (HANG): Senior Master Sgt. Richard DeVeas, member (HANG); 1st Sgt. Ben Villaverde, member (HARNG); Tech. Sgt. Al DeRego, councilman (HANG): Sgt. 1st Class Tom Chock, councilman (HARNG); Sgt. 1st Class James Sugiyama, councilman (HARNG) and Sgt. Neal Gima, councilman (HANG).

Master Sgt. Wayne Soma led the Hawaii contingency and provided the following summary:

An area caucus meeting started the first day of the conference. The general assembly meeting ran five hours. Lt. Gen. Emmett Walker, chief of the National Guard Bureau (NGB), was the guest speaker for the day. Various committee meetings were held throughout the afternoon. The evening concluded with a Clam Bake which was cut short due to a severe thunderstorm.

Maj. Gen. M.G. Matera, president of EANGUS, was guest speaker for the second day session. The morning ended with the Army and Air Guard members attending their respective meetings. Here the conferees were given an update of their organization's progress. Mai. Gen. John B. Conaway. director of the Air National Guard, was unable to attend due to business at the Pentagon.

Alan D. Obermiller (Retired), EANGUS executive secretary, brought the fourth business session to a close. A pageant titled "We are the Guard" was presented by the ceremonial troops of the Massachusetts Army National Guard capping the evening.

Area caucuses started the final day of the conference. The resolutions committee reported several new areas of concern including Active Duty Guard Reserve (AGR) matters. A formal flag presentation from all states concluded the morning session.

The National's executive officers elections took place that afternoon. The incumbent president and vice president were reelected with Hawaii's delegate vote (15) challenged by New Jersey during the election of the president. The National's new treasurer is Staff Sgt. Nancy Peller from Oakland ANG; new secretary is Sgt. 1st Class Yvonne Thompson from North Dakota ARNG.

Hawaii's membership at the national level ranked sixth with a total of 2733 paid members. We updated the life-time members' roster and incorrect cards were submitted to the National's treasurer for correction. Hawaii submitted a check of $50.00 to the EANGUS Building Fund.

The conference ended with the All States

Banquet. This formal affair was held in the Imperial Ballroom of the Park Plaza & Tower Hotel. Dinner was followed by a Extreme heat and an earth tremo were nature's obstacles to soldiers of the Hawaii Army National Guard's 292n Supply and Service Company as the performed two weeks of Annual Train ing at Daggett Airfield in California Mojave Desert last month.

"I drank eight canteens of water day, more than I would usually drink i a week," said Sgt. Gerald Cabuag of th 292nd. "My canteen was always at m side."

Uncomfortable conditions aside, the 292nd had missions to perform in the Mojave Desert, according to Cap James Kinoshita, company commander.

"Our company arrived at the begin ning of the Gallant Eagle training exe cise and was tasked with setting up sup port facilities before the main field train ing exercise began at Daggett Airfield George Air Force Base, and at Twenty nine Palms," he said.

Support facilities included setting u vehicle refueling stations, supply picl up points, male and female show facilities, a laundry service and even clothing repair shop, Kinoshita said.

The distance between these location provided a logistics challenge to the mission of the 292nd.

"From Daggett, it's 45 miles t George Air Force Base and 80 miles t Twenty-nine Palms," said 1st L Michael Nakahara, 292nd Executiv Officer.

RNG's last round-out

inpanies, hospitals, financial institutions, restaurants, hotels and Hawaii's largest sugar plantations toured PTA, visiting the soldier-on-the field.

"We appreciate the support that our civilian employers give to our soldiers and we wanted them to get a better idea on what our soldiers—and their employees-go through during their two weeks of annual training," said Maj. Gen. Alexis T. Lum, state adjutant general. "Sometimes one person leaving a small operation can impede the company's operation," continued Lum, "but by working together and fostering a od relationship among the Guard and Reserve, its people and their employers, we'll be able to maintain our state's and nation's military readiness and help our businesses prosper."

This year also marks the last annual training for Brig. Gen. Irwin K. Cockett, Jr., assistant adjutant general, Army, HARNG's commander, and the last year that the 25th Inf Bde and the HIC's select units train as part of the Army's 25th Infantry Division's Roundout Program. Under this program, the Hawaii Army National Guard would have become part of the 25th in the event of federal mobilization. On October 1, the 29th Inf Bde will become a separate infantry brigade.

Following the completion of their 15 days of active-duty training, Hawaii's citizen soldiers returned to their homes and civilian careers and activities.

completes desert training The area was vast, but also great were tasks accomplished by members of the 292nd.

"The first thing we had to do was set up netting," said 292nd 1st Sgt. Juan Ramores. The camouflage netting for the Supply Battalion covered 15 General Purpose (GP) medium-sized tents and 6 GP small tents. "Camouflage netting of these 21 tents became a long day's work," Ramores said.

. . . the smoothest integration of active and reserve components. . .

After the camouflage netting was setup, the 292nd at Daggett linked up with the 561st Supply and Service Battalion, a regular Army unit from Fort Campbell, Kentucky.

"The 561st provided the heavy equipment such as the washers and dryers. We set the equipment up, ran it and performed maintenance as necessary," said Kinoshita.

But there was no maintenance going on in the wee hours of the morning as soldiers of the 292nd were shaken from their sleep by another of California's natural phenomenon, an earthquake.

"It was about 2:20 a.m. when the tremor hit," said Nakahara. "Some of the tents weren't set up yet, so we were sleeping in an open hangar. We awoke to the earth shaking and the roof waving overhead."

"I jumped up and ran out," said Spec. 4 Rosalie Gongob.

The effects of the quake to the soldiers were limited to the scare and startling wake-up. The tremor had been caused by a quake that occurred 75 miles away in Palm Springs, according to news reports.

Despite the heat and earth tremor disruptions, services offered by the 292nd were completely operational within days. They began 24-hour service work shifts in support of the field units participation in Gallant Eagle training

"Everything went as planned," observed 2nd Lt. Gary Littlefield, the petroleum platoon leader at Daggett, "thanks to teamwork and attention to detail by my troops and key non-commissioned officers like Staff Sgt. Kiyoshi Arakawa, who led by example."

"There were no problems with the food distribution," said 1st Lt. Karen Wall, platoon leader for the dining facility.

"This is the smoothest integration of reserve and active components that I've seen in 17 years," said Lt. Col. Neil Biamon, commander of the 561st.

"The soldiers were knowledgeable about the operation and they knew their job," said 1st Lt. Antonio Foster, 292nd evaluator, a Brigade training officer from Fort Lee, Viginia.

Meeting the challenges of mission and training requirements while conquering Mother Nature's obstacles such as the heat and an unexpected earthquake gave the soldiers of the 292nd cause to celebrate.

Before they left the Mojave desert, along with its fire ants, coyotes, snakes and black widow spiders, . . . they gave thanks . . . Hawaiian style.

On the eve of their departure, soldiers of the 292nd Supply and Service Company bid Aloha to the Mojave Desert by way of an authentic Hawaiian luau, complete with a fire-pit, imu-roasted pig, and all the island extras.

"You can bet desert training doesn't often end like this," said Kinoshita.

HARNG'86 Safety Awards

General Safety

The two day Hawaii Army National Guard Annual General Safety Conference was attended by 50 officers and 59 enlisted members who are the units' safety representatives. The conference was held at the Kona Lagoon Hotel June 7-8, 1986.

Featured were four out-of-state instructors. David MacCormak (risk assessment) and Vivian Graham (accident investigation and reporting) were from the Army National Guard Safety Office. Chief Warrant Officer George P. White, Missouri (heat stress and water survival with MOPP gear), and Chief Warrant Officer Billy Langan, Nebraska (accident causes), are the respective state's safety managers.

The HARNG Safety Awards were awarded to five units and 24 individuals for their significant contributions to the HARNG Safety Program and for accident-free periods from one to 15 years.

Units receiving the awards were HQ, HQ Company, 29th Infantry Brigade; HQ, HQ Company, 1/299; HQ, HQ Detachment, 159th Maintenance Battalion; 291st Maintenance Company; and 1154th Transportation Company.

Highlighting the individual safety awards were Chief Warrant Officer Melvin K. Chock and Sgt. 1st Class Moriano Campollo, 298th Engineering Detachment, and Sgt. 1st Class John M. Cummings, Jr., USPFO Section, HQ HQ STARC, HARNG. They received the HARNG Safety Award of Excellence for 15 years without an on-duty accident from January 1, 1971 to December 31, 1985.

Next year's Safety Conference will be a joint air and ground conference that will be held on Kauai in June, 1987.

Aviation Safety

The aviation section of the Hawaii Army National Guard (HARNG) held its annual air safety conference at the Pacific Beach Hotel on June 7-8, 1986.

The Awards Luncheon gave recognition to pilots with accident-free hours of 500, 1000 and 2000 hours. Chief Warrant Officer Keith E. Carlson and Capt. Thomas M. Dooling received the 2000-hour awards.

The Broken Wing Award (given to a pilot who has an inflight failure, but successfully maneuvers an aircraft to safety without any damage to passengers or craft) was presented to Capt. James D. H. Bacon.

The HARNG Maka'ala went to civilian aviation technician Dennis J. Hara.

The HARNG Aviation Enlisted Soldier of the Year was Sgt. 1st Class Alexander A. Halemanu and the Aviator of the Year was Chief Warrant Officer Ronald L. Watkins.

Receiving special momentos were Al Cargen, John Stanko, and Brig. Gen. Irwin K. Cockett, Jr., assistant adjutant general, Army.

TAPE ONE—Sgt. Keith T. Arakaki, 111th Army Band, Hawaii Army National Guard approaches the tape, enroute finishing first in HARNG's First Warrior Fun Run. His winning time was 25:04 minutes for the four-mile run.

POLICE ESCORT—Robyn Hironaka was the first female finisher, completing in 34:13 minutes. Robyn is the daughter of Roberta Hironaka of the USPFO.

First HARNG Fun Run

The first annual Hawaii Army National Guard (HARNG) Warrior Fun Run was held early Sunday, on June 14, 1986. Approximately 115 runners braved the 4-mile course from the U.S. Property and Fiscal Office (USPFO) building Diamond Head Crater down to Hunakai Park and back to USPFO.

The Fun Run was open to all HARNG soldiers, their families and full-time employees of HARNG. The entry fee was kept at a minimum of $7.00 to encourage family participation. The fee covered the T-shirt and refreshment costs. The donated prize list included T-shirts, watches, coolers, lawn chairs, athletic bags, caps and cases of fruit drinks.

The Warrior Fun Run was planned and organized by Sgt. Leland Tobias, HQ STARC, HARNG, to promote Guard and family physical activity, esprit and comraderie.

In February, Tobias "drafted" a team of volunteers to work on functional committees and recruiting volunteer workers. Heading the committees were: Sgt. Tracy Mauliola (HQ STARC/Assistant Race Director), Maj. Claude Ishida (HQ STARC/Route), Maj. Walter Kinoshita (Recruiting & Retention Office/Awards), Col. Melvin Ida (USPFO/Aid Station), Sgt. 1st Class Samuel Akao (USPFO/Finish Line), Chief Warrant Officer William Shea (USPFO/Medical Support), Sgt. 1st Class Alvin Wong (USPFO/Refreshments), Master Sgt. George Tanaka (USPFO/Parking), Sgt. 1st Class Billy Hue (USPFO/Time & Results), and Master Sgt. Jerry Maesaka (Det. 1, STARC/Post-Race Activities).

"With the enthusiasm of runners and volunteers," said Sgt. Leland Tobias, "I hope next year's run will top the first."

The division winners were:

Overall 1st place, Sgt. Keith T. Arakaki, 111th Army Band 2nd place, Sgt. Maynard Sweeny, 1293rd Aviation

Sgt. Lucia Gonzalez and Spec. 4 Carol G. Cabanlet are on board the Decentralized Automatic Service Support System (DAS-3) staff as supply clerks. They process unit requests for supplies through the DAS-3 system and maintain updated files.

Cabanlet

Sgt. Gonzales is a member of the 291st Maintenance Company, HARNG. Her gourmet taste leads her to a variety of restaurants. She also enjoys comic relief at the movies when not raising the joy of her life—16-month old Isarel Ikaika Velez, III.

Spec. 4 Cabanlet is a member of 12th Personnel Service Company, HARNG. The many loves of her life include sports, cooking, dancing and drawing.

Kathi M. Bio joins the Army Aviation Service Facility No. 2 (AASF #2) in Hilo as a clerk-typist where she provides secretarial support to the aviation staff. Kathi spends her quite time reading (horror/science fiction) and more active after hours going on nature hikes and playing racquetball.

Spec. 4 Alvin A. Sniffen is an aircraft ordnance systems mechanic, repairing weapons systems at the Army Aviation Service Facility No. 1, Wheeler Air Force base. On weekends, once a month, he's with Troop E, 19th Calvary, HARNG, as an aircraft armament specialist. His interests include weight lifting and women, hiking, camping and women, and dancing and women.

Maj. Vern T. Miyagi, HQ STARC (-Det. 1), Hawaii Army National Guard (HARNG), financial manager in the comptroller section at USPFO, returned after graduating from the U.S.

Miyagi

Marine Corps Command & Staff College in June.

Maj. Miyagi is the first HARNG individual to graduate from the Marine College. The 10-month resident course in Virginia is academically comparable to the command and general staff colleges of the Army.

Miyagi also won second place in the '86 Colonel Bevan G. Cass Award. He received a plaque and $400 for his paper comparing the relative merits of small arms ammunition. The plaque and cash awards are given annually to the students of the college who write the best papers on a professional subject.

NCO and Soldier of the Year

MUN'S THE WORD-Master Sgt. Lawrence K.K. Mun, 159th, Maintenance Battalion, HARNG, non-commissioned officer of the year, prepares the maintenance report on a vehicle returned from PTA. (HIPAO photo)

The Hawaii Army National Guard's (HARNG) non-commissioned officer (NCO) and soldier of the year for calendar year 1986 are Master Sgt. Lawrence K. K. Mun, 159th Maintenance Battalion, and Spec. 4 Scott Casey, 292nd Supply and Service Company.

The NCO of the Year Award is presented to the individual "selected as the most outstanding enlisted individual of HARNG in the grade of E-5 and above." The HARNG Soldier of the Year Award is presented to the individual "selected as the most outstanding enlisted individual of HARNG in the grade of E-4 and below."

Master Sgt. Mun's drill status and annual training duties as Maintenance Operation to Logistical Operations Sergeant enable him to share his knowledge and skill in support level maintenance and automotive mechanics. He works fulltime as a Heavy Mobile Equipment Repair Inspector at HARNG's Combined Support Maintenance Shop No. 1 (CSMS #1). His attention to detail in organizing and planning work projects ensures efficient and effective use of the "work day."

He and his wife Karen are the proud parents of two boys and two girls.

Mun keeps active off-duty hours pounding the tennis courts. He's an avid tennis player and is prominent in the organization of the Hawaii National Guard Tennis League and its yearly tournament.

Spec. 4 Scott Casey works in the field communications section of the 292nd Supply and Service Company and at Loomis Armored Cars as a civilian.

In the short two and a half years that Spec. Casey's been in the Hawaii Army Guard he's earned the respect of his peers and leaders.

During Annual Training '85 (AT '85) he received a Letter of Commendation from the Army evaluators for his outstanding performance in field communications. In preparing for AT '85 he took field communications by military correspondence to qualify in the new Military Occupational Specialty (MOS). He impressed the Army evaluators who were experts in tactical communications and checked their communications system and found a way to improve it. The evaluators wished that Casey was in the regular army unit.

Specialist Casey graduated from Waianae High School in 1983 where he received a letter in track. Sports enthusiast Casey plays tennis, softball, basketball . . . all sports. He captained the 297th Supply and Service Battalion, HARNG, volleyball team and competed in the National Guard Marathon in Lincoln, Nebraska, this year.

Congratulations to Master Sgt. Lawrence Mun and Spec. 4 Scott Casey for exemplifying the Hawaii Army National Guard soldier.

2 Promotions

Congratulations are in order for the following Hawaii Army and Air National Guard members who have wher received promotions, appointments or federal recognition.

Officers do not wear their new rank until they receive federal recognition.

NGAUS award to 169th

The 169th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron Hawaii Air National Guard, located at Wheeler Air Force Base, has been awarded one of the five Mission Support Plaques given by National Guard Association of the United States (NGAUS). It is for the 169th's significant contributions to the professionalism of the Total Force. This is in addition to the National Safety Council Award of Commendation announced in the last Pupukahi.

Missions in Europe and Hawaii

Creek Klaxon deployment

After a long, hard winter, the first Hawaii Air National Guard participants in Creek Klaxon (Air Guard's only continuing deployment in Europe) returned to Hawaii this summer.

Maj. Ace Ellinwood, Capt. Chuck "Charles" Manley, Tech. Sgt. Steve Morita, and Sgt. William Abilla of the 154th Composite Group represented Hawaji.

At Ramstein Air Base, Germany, headquarters of the U. S. Air Forces in Europe, the Air Guard quickly established a positive reputation flying the only "Air Defense Gray" F-4's.

Creek Klaxon's commander/General of the 316th Air Division and his radar weapons controllers reported that the Air Guard crews were the best, most professional crews that he had ever worked with.

Besides seeing Europe, Creek Klaxon players enjoyed the benefit of working together with Guardsmen from seven other Air Defense units. The "crosstalk" kept the units up to date on new innovations different units developed, both in air-to-air tactics and maintenance techniques. Many friendships were made that are sure to help all Air Guard units work more closely together in the future:

Creek Klaxon is scheduled to end May 31, 1987. Will it continue any longer? No one knows yet, but many in the Guard and Europe's forces hope it will. The travel opportunities and the chance to work and fly with other units in the European environment provide experiences and training that cannot be matched . . . have a warm coat handy.

RIMPAC and Giant Squid exercises

The Hawaii Air National Guard's 154th Composite Group (HANG, 154th COMPG) took part in RIMPAC exercises and missile project Giant Squid in June, 1986.

The 154th's aircrews participated in the RIMPAC exercises as adversaries against the naval forces attempting to strike Kahoolawe. HANG made up part of the Orange Forces, along with Marine F-4's and A-4's. The Navy Blue Forces were F-14 Tomcats, F-18 Hornets, A-7 Corsairs, and A-6

Intruders. Of six flights, only two were in actual engagements with the Navy Forces. The air combat training sorties provided good results. The 154th air crews proved that atacking the Islands would not be a "piece of cake."

An aircraft and pilot from the 154th COMPG supported the Giant Squid project, enabling a photographer the angle to record the launching of the airto-surface Harpoon missile. Maj. Ed Pickering flew a McDonnell Douglas photographer alongside the missile after it was fired from a U. S. Air Force bomber. Maj. Pickering was required to fly very low along the water and follow the missile until it hit the target. The launch on Kauai's south point was successful. Congratulations for a well mission accomplished.
