Gen. James K. Terry

Command of 29th to go to Terry

Brig. Gen. James K. Terry will be the next commanding general of the 29th Infantry Brigade, Maj. Gen. Roy Lasseter Jr., U. S. Army Hawaii commander, has announced.

Gen. Terry is scheduled to replace Brig. Gen. Frederick A. Schaeffer III late in February. The 29th is stationed at Schofield Barracks.

Schaeffer will leave in January for duty in Vietnam.

In January, 1968, Terry was assigned as assistant division commander, 7th Infantry Division, Eighth U.S. Army in Korea.

Since November, he has been acting division commander.

Before his assignment in Korea, he was commanding general, Combat Arms Group of the U.S. Army Combat Developments Command, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.

He holds the Silver Star, Bronze Star Medals with Oak Leaf Cluster, and the Army Commendation Medal, among his decorations.
