Governor Says No Troops to Mainland

Gov. John A. Burns said yesterday he thinks there is no chance the Islanders before they are sent anywhere, but he doesn't believe they will be sent to the Mainland.

the 24,500-man callup, Burns said:

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The Pentagon said yesterday that men with less than six months of service remaining will be exempt from the callup.

He emphasized he had no special knowledge of the Defense Department's plans and had not been in contact with anyone in Washington about them yesterday.

"Our people always have given more in defense of our country than many others have. I don't believe the people of Hawaii have ever shirked their duty in case of necessity."

called to active military duty will be sent to the Mainland.

He said he believed the local forces would undergo training at Schofield Barracks for some time before going anywhere — if they go anywhere.

He said the 29th Brigade here, because of its excellence, is one of the few special reserve force status and that this must have influenced the decision in Washington.

Burns said he felt it would be a considerable time be-
