Few Guardsmen Seek Exemption From Duty

By WALLACE MITCHELL
Advertiser Military Writer

Only a small percentage of Guardsmen has requested exemptions from going on active duty with the 29th Infantry Brigade.

Maj. Gen. Benjamin J. Webster, State Adjutant General, said his office has not totaled the number of requests being processed "but the percentage has been very small."

Webster said that a number of men will be delayed in going on duty Monday pending final determination of their physical status.

Deferments in date of reporting are running relatively high because of the large number of Guardsmen who are teachers or still in school. They have automatic
