

COMPANY B WILL GIVE BIG SMOKER AT ARMORY

Elaborate preparations are being made by the men of Company B of the National Guard for their smoker which will be held Wednesday night. A program has been arranged to include tumbling, music and refreshments. Col. Samuel I. Johnson, the adjutant-general, will speak. Each man in the company is urged to bring at least two guests who are interested in the work of the National Guard. The company needs 10 or more recruits at the present time and the smoker is given principally with a view to bringing the number up to the requirements. The entertainment will be given in the social hall of the armory.
